NEW CASTLE TOLL BRIDGES

County Commissioners Hold Hearing on Petitions to Free the Structures--Adjournment Taken to Friday Evening, Feb. 6

The board of commissioners for Rockingham County, consisting of Norman H. Beane, William A. Hodgdon of this city and George A. Carlisle of Exeter, held a hearing on the petition of the residents of New Castle for the freeing of the New Castle toll bridges. Three petitions were presented, one signed by Andrew M. White and 30 others of New Castle, the second by Frank W. Knight and 31 others of this city, and the third by T. H. Perkins of Rye and 30 others.

When Chairman Beane called the hearing to order at 10:15 o'clock the selectmen of New Castle and other prominent residents of the town were present. The representation from this city, however, was very small.

The text of the petition was read by Mr. Hodgdon, clerk of the board, and in response to the question of Chairman Beane, Mr. W. L. Haywood said he represented the petitioners and Major Urech said he and Charles P. Tucker represented the proprietors of the New Castle bridge.

Mr. Haywood when called upon said that for ninety years the people of New Castle had been obliged to pay toll. The people of that town were obliged to do practically all of their trading in Portsmouth and it was about time that these toll bridges should be free, as it was a hardship on the people of the town. He did not want to do anything detrimental to Major Urech or his people, but it was time that the commissioners took action towards freeing the bridges.

Selectman Elmer E. Eaton said that New Castle had a population of 500 persons and the town paid $1000 a year county tax. In addition the residents and their children were obliged to pay a large sum of money annually for toll in order to come to this city. The people of the town looked to the county commissioners to relieve them of the latter burden. The town had stood the burden for many years, and now the residents would like to see the bridge made free as it meant a good deal to them.

Selectman Oliver B. Marvin said he had nothing against Major Urech but that he thought these toll bridges kept New Castle from growing and many persons were prevented from taking up their residence there by reason of the additional expense occasioned by the toll bridge.

M. H. Bell of this city spoke in favor of the doing away with such antique relics as these toll bridges, but said there was another question that entered into the matter, that of properly reimbursing Major Urech, who had taken a ramshackle structure and put it in excellent condition.

William T. Entwistle said he was surprised at what little enthusiasm was manifested in the matter of freeing the bridge by the people of this city. The people of Portsmouth, who would reap the greater benefits if the bridge should be made free.

Representative Priddham said that Portsmouth was the one that would reap the benefit as the people of New Castle did the bulk of their trading in this city.

Chairman Beane stated that it was a big business proposition and the commissioners would like to hear from both the people of Portsmouth and New Castle on the matter.

Mr. Entwistle asked is the question of the county acquiring the property had ever been taken into consideration.

MANCHESTER HAS A BIG FIRE

WEAVER FIRES SHOT AT MARINE Later Discovered to be Man Wanted for Robbery at Navy Yard Barracks

Shortly after 4 o'clock on Wednesday morning Charles W. Weaver, proprietor of the restaurant at Rosemary Junction on the Atlantic Shore Railroad, who sleeps at his place of business, was awakened by the noise of some one removing the shutters of the window. The burglar after getting off the shutters began flinging out the putty of the glass with the intention of throwing back the catch to open the window.

Weaver, who has had many visits from thieves had made up his mind to get this man and had planned to let him get inside and hold him with the gun. The proprietor made a move, however, and the man at the window quickly ceased operations and ran up the railroad towards Dover. Weaver gave chase and let one shot go after the crook. In his hurry to get away he left a dress suit case which Weaver took charge of and immediately notified the police. Officer Shannon went out on the case and on his arrival made an examination of the suit case. It proved to be one taken by Trundell, the marine who is wanted by the navy authorities for the larceny of clothing from the marine barracks. It contained about $30 worth of wearing apparel.

Further investigation by Officer Shannon brought out the fact that the 4 o'clock car from the car barn to Dover picked up Trundell after his escape from Rosemary.

Trundell is well known in Dover and the police continued the search for him there. He visited one of his favorite haunts where he has a lady love, but had realized his danger in a long stay and again made his escape.

Scene of Revival of Old Scottish Sports; Athlete Tossing the Caber

TOSSING THE CABER

The renewal each year of the Braemar sports, ancient Scottish contests of skill and muscle is always a notable occasion in England. The king and queen and other prominent people attend. One of the events is known as tossing the caber. The caber, being a long, heavy bar of wood, this feature is not unlike the American hammer throwing event. In this tradition a Scotch expert, Michael, is seen tossing the caber at the recent Braemar sports competition held at Deeside, England.

ARGO RELEASED ON WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS

Case Against Organizer Is Taken Out of Claremont
Police Hands.

The writ of habeas corpus issued by Judge John Kivel, who is sitting at the town of superior court at Manchester, took the case of Edward S. Argo out of the hands of the Claremont police court, Chief Blumer S. Cole accompanied Mr. Argo to Manchester this noon.

Organizer Argo was arrested yesterday by Chief Cole for speaking before the machinists on Central street as an ordinance was passed prohibiting the same last week. Argo was the second one arrested on the charge, John Gathringer, being the first. The former is now under bonds to appear at the May term of court, as he appealed his case.

It was generally understood that there would be another attempt to attempt the trick this noon and the largest crowd of any time was in waiting to hear him in front of the Sullivan Company's Machinery works on Main street, but they were doomed to disappointment, as the matter in hand required the attention of the organizers who were in a position to do so.

Sentiment is rapidly leaning toward the organizers and the general comment is "Why don't they let them speak. We ought to be allowed to hear them. Fair play should be given."

Refuse Gompers Chance

The organizers again visited the selectmen this morning and asked for a permit to speak and were refused. They then tried to hire the town hall for President Samuel Gompers to speak in, and were again refused. The hall is still tied down as far as their securing a place to speak is concerned.

International Vice President Frank Jennings of the International Association of Machinists of Boston, together with General Organizers Joseph Gilmore and E. O. Young will arrive in town this afternoon and several more are expected to take up the work.

According to the organizers the "fun" as it is now being termed, has just begun and the work of organizing will continue in earnest.

NEIL O'BRIEN HAS A GREAT SHOW

Neil O'Brien and his clever minstrel company were greeted by a big audience at the Portsmouth Theatre on Wednesday evening and it is seldom that a Portsmouth audience is as well pleased as last evening. Neil O'Brien has always been a favorite here and it seems good to see him doing a little for himself instead of boosting somebody else.

He is presenting a clever show, with clever people and in a decided original and pleasing manner. He has surrounded himself with a high class company of singers, dancers and musicians, and also several top line vaudeville artists, making a performance that is certainly as good as ever shown here.

The overture was full of good things. In turn Pete Detzel, Eddie Ross, Eddie Muzier and Neil O'Brien presented some good stuff in the way of jokes and stage-business. The solos were all good. Winfield Williams sang "When His Apple Tree in Normandy" Leslie Berry made a hit with "When the Twilight Comes to Kiss the Rose Goodnight." James Baranoff had a fine song in "Dream Days and Al Fontaine in "Any Old Port in a Storm," and it was effective by rendered.

A very pleasing ending was the cooperative argument with Eddie Muzier and the soloists.

A sketch entitled "Who's Ross or Taming the Minstrel" Eddie Muzier and Major Novak was clever. The major is between two and three feet tall, and with the voice of a towncrier. He is somewhat of a comedian and with his statue he is very funny. Muzier was as usual a laugh producer.

Neil O'Brien and Peter Detzel had another very amusing sketch entitled "Parade Post" and it gave the big fellow lots of chance to work off his store of good things.

A sketch entitled Ebony university class day was a novel dancing act, in which some very clever people took part. Notable Peter Detzel in the Foxy Dance and Doran and Strong in the Eccentric Duo.

Eddie Ross with his African Harp, made a great hit. He is a top liner in vaudeville and he has a line of talk that kept the house in an uproar.

He is as fine a banjo player as there is in the business today and he has a whistling stunt that is decidedly good.

The closing was original and pleasing. The stage was set as in the overture and with the selection Good Night White Folks, with bell accompaniment the curtain went down on a very fine performance.

Dr. Thomas Celestine Oil is the best remedy for that often fatal disease—croup. "It has been used with success in our family for eight years."

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

Farming Not a Philanthropy.

At a meeting of the New York State Agricultural Society a few days ago one of the speakers urged small farmers to make the production of beef a part of their business. He pointed to the fact that the western ranges are growing fewer and smaller and said the deficiency in the beef supply must be made up by the farmers of the East. He said a male calf could be developed into a 1000-pound steer in 18 months, and thought farmers might well devote a part of their attention to the production of beef.

In response to this one of the farmers present said that it was difficult for a farmer to sell beef to advantage. He declared that the marketmen hesitate to buy beef of farmers, for the reason that if they do this to any extent the packers will refuse to supply them. In no part of the East can the farmers produce enough beef to supply the market, and dealers who find themselves at odds with the packers, from whom their supplies must mainly come, are placed in a very uncomfortable position.

How much truth there may be in this representation is known best to those who have had experience in beef raising and selling, but there is one truth in connection with the question of home grown beef with which most people are familiar, and this is that the public has offered little encouragement to the production of beef at home. The idea is prevalent that "prime western steer" is the only beef fit to eat, and the farmer who turns out a carcass of beef, no matter how choice, finds the market for his product not nearly so inviting as it should be. It may be that conditions will change as time goes on, and that eastern beef will regain something of the popularity it enjoyed in the old days. But those who are looking for beef growing in this part of the country to bring down the price will probably be disappointed. High prices alone will induce the farmers to enter this field, and when their product is ready for the market they will want the going price. Many are urging the farmers of the country to increase their production in order to bring down prices and make it easier for other people to live, but this does not appeal to the average farmer, who enjoys high prices as well as do the manufacturers and labor unions.

Why Should Not 1914 Be a Get Together Year?

President Wilson's healthy optimism over the prospect of co-operation on the part of leaders in the business world in bringing about readjustment to new conditions has proved fully warranted. The President has made clear, time and again, that he is not against Big Business, and now Big Business is showing that not only is it not opposed to the President and his policies, but that these have its cordial support.

Why should not President Wilson have the same kind of support from all other elements that go to make up the composite of American life? Why should not 1914 be a "get together" year to mark the beginning of an Era of Good Feeling similar to that which gave to the administration of another Virginian its most enviable place in history?

James Monroe was able to devote all his energies to the economic development of the country because, as history tells us, "party issues were dead" during his incumbency of the Presidency. Party issues are just as dead today. Some politicians there are who are seeking—by loud protestations of superior virtue or by raucous croakings of calamity—to attract attention to themselves, but they fool nobody. The people of the United States know that there are today no real party issues, and there is no indication of tendency on their part to permit themselves to be led into division over spurious or false issues.—Washington Star.

Many northern people are now rushing to the South to escape the rigors of the winter, which have been quite pronounced of late. It is a pleasant thing to do for those who are able, but we who stay at home, from choice or necessity, do not miss all the enjoyments of life, even in the winter season, and live as long as those who migrate with the birds.

The railroads of the country will not be fully equipped with steel cars right away, according to George A. Post, president of the Railway Business Association, who says it would take 25 years and cost $392,000,000 to make the change. The wooden car still has something of a future.

A member of the Massachusetts Legislature who knows how to "put up his hands" said during a discussion in the House the other day that "getting a smash on the jaw makes a fellow think faster." But there are instances when it stops thinking entirely for the time being.

That Chicago hotel for "down and outs" will probably have no cause to complain of a lack of patronage during the winter. At this time of the year a house that furnishes meals, lodgings and baths for a few cents should be extremely popular.

Three Leaders of Victorious Army of Mexican Revolutionists.

Here are the three chief rebel generals now active in the field in Mexico against President Huerta's federal troops. Left to right they are General Ortega, General Pancho Villa and General Flores. This trio are the leaders of the army of 10,000 men formed to attack Torreon and march on to Mexico City.

and Mr. Beane said it had not.

Selectman Marvin said that Portsmouth would benefit more than New Castle as 75 to 80 per cent. of the trading was done in this city, as the storekeepers of New Castle were handicapped by having not only to pay freight charges, but toll for the goods brought into town.

George Melton said that he paid $27 for tolls last month.

C. W. Eaton said that while there was only a small representation from New Castle, they represented the sentiments of the citizens. We know that we are handicapped by the toll bridge and feel as though we were behind the bars. The bridge should be free.

Mr. Entwistle said that the meeting should be adjourned so that the people of Portsmouth should be heard in the matter.

Selectman Jesse O. White said he was in favor of freeing the bridges for the benefit of the town.

Mr. Eaton said that at a future hearing he should endeavor to present some facts regarding the burden on the people of New Castle.

Major French, when called upon, said that he should expect to be heard after all of the evidence of the petitioners had been submitted, but deemed it highly improper to make any statement at that time.

The hearing was adjourned until Friday evening, Feb. 6, at 7.30 o'clock.

TALKS ON THRIFT.—(AMERICAN BANKERS ASSOCIATION.)

"Provision for others is the fundamental responsibility of human life," President Woodrow Wilson.

A regular plan of saving, adopted and religiously carried out has been proved by the experience of many thrifty persons to be the only one to have successfully.

Most of us need to be forced in some way or other to do many things which would really be greatly to our advantage.

Adopting a definite system surely helps you save because in a way it forces you to economize. You will feel that you must save and you will save.

When you have acquired the habit, your savings will be as regular as clock work, you gradually will build a substantial capital from your earnings and put yourself in a position to add to your capital when necessary, through credit, because with some money and a reputation for industry and thrift, you will be entitled to the confidence and cooperation of financial backers. And this will open the door to the broadest success, if you have the other qualities that make for success.

In nine-tenths of family incomes of from $10 a week up, a quarter goes to rent, a half to food and its preparation, and the last fourth is the margin left for clothing and sundries. "Engel's law" as economists call it, knows few exceptions in moderate incomes.

If a family can reduce a month's rent to less than a week's income, can pay for a month's food, fuel and service on less than two weeks' pay, a beginning has been made in the larger possibilities of thrift and saving for the future on a systematic basis.

WANTS CITY TO PAY.
Mayor French of Concord Thinks City Should Help Old Soldiers.

Mayor French of Concord, who recently called a halt on the tango, has come in the limelight again. He wants the city government to provide a meeting place for the Grand Army at the expense of the city and quotes cities and towns in the state as furnishing headquarters for the old soldiers. The plan is said to be meeting with much favor, regardless of the fact that it is more bait added to his campaign for congress.

GOV. FELKER MAY SEEK A RE-ELECTION

Report Has It That John Hutchins Will Be Democratic Candidate for Governor.

The political situation in the state at the present time is summed up by the Manchester Union as follows:

The political primary contest which ordinarily gets under way about this season in every alternate year waits for the return from the national capital of Senator Henry F. Hollis, Democratic leader, who is hiding the lights of their ambitions under a bushel at the present time.

Senator Hollis heads the radical wing of the democracy and will put forth candidates for governor and senator to succeed Samuel D. Felker, democrat, and Dr. Jacob H. Gallinger, republican. The junior senator will hold conferences with party leaders upon his return and then it is expected that some boomlets will be launched as "feelers."

Names most frequently and convincingly heard as candidates of the radical wing are Senator John C. Hutchins of Stratford for governor and Congressman Raymond B. Stevens of Londonderry for senator. Senator Hutchins when in town last week, attending the state assessors' convention in his capacity as a selectman, had some talk with politicians. He said he had not got around to announcing his candidacy for the democratic nomination, but it is perfectly well known that if Hollis assures him of support he will deposit his name in the ring at an early date.

Hutchins a Hollis Man.

Senator Hutchins led the Hollis forces in the senate during the legislative deadlock last year. His record in legislation was one acceptable to the radical element. He supported the 55-hour and other labor measures. He is a big man in the north country, politically and commercially and there is very little doubt of his becoming an aspirant for high honors when the time arrives.

Congressman Stevens was to the Hollis forces in the house of representatives what Hutchins was in the higher body. Until he resigned to go to Washington, "Ray" was first lieutenant in the democratic campaign. Since taking his seat in congress his stand has been consistently with the national administration, voting for the tariff and currency bills and collaborating with Hollis in all moves.

It has been known for six months that Stevens aspires to a toga. So long as the friendly relations continue between him and Hollis, there is little doubt that he will be put forward for the higher seat, to be a colleague of the radical leader.

The conservative wing of the democratic party may contest in the primary and it may not. This depends on what the conservatives leaders think of their chance to beat the Hollis ticket. The conservatives claim to be supporters of the national administration no less than the radicals but no conservative democrat in this state is anywhere near as close to President Woodrow Wilson as Hollis and Stevens are.

The conservative leaders are Governor Felker, Chairman John B. Jameson of the state committee and Congressman Eugene E. Reed. The impression has been gained from recent conversations with his excellency that Felker may stand for a renomination.

Felker for Renomination.
It is claimed by the opposition, both within and without the democratic party that Felker would stand no more show than Boss did in Massachusetts. But the governor himself believes that his record is good. He would like to vindicate himself and his administration either through himself or one of his supporters, for instance Councillor Albert W. Noone of Peterboro.

Both the governor and Councillor Noone were in town yesterday, although not traveling together. Noone had some political business with Councillor Lewis G. Gilman and called on the latter at his drug store in East Manchester. His excellency was here the previous night to speak at the bankers' banquet at the Joliet club. Neither had much definite to say in regard to the political situation.

Two new elements are likely to be injected into the democratic primary campaign at an early date. One is the labor situation at Claremont and the other is the police situation here.

The republican and progressive leaders have as yet made no move. Former Gov. Robert P. Bass is understood to be a likely senatorial candidate but at present his health is poor and he may not be able to make a state-wide stump tour such as he did with such success four years ago as republican candidate for governor. Representative Henry D. Allison of Dublin, leader of the progressive forces in the legislature, is being mentioned for governor. If Bass runs for senator, Allison is not much of a campaigner, but he is a high grade man and a big asset to the bull moose outfit.

Reed Will Probably Run.
Congressman Reed will probably stand for renomination and no opposition within the party is expected to

CURRENT OPINION

Call Conference to Discuss Reduction in Cost of Army and Navy.

I venture to recommend that the war and navy officials and other representatives of all the nations be invited to hold a conference to discuss whether they cannot agree upon a plan for lessening the cost of preparation for war. It is recognized that the desired end of competitive building, carried on under whip and spur, could not be effective without agreement between great nations. It ought not to be difficult to secure an agreement by which navies will be adequate without being overgrown and without imposing overburdening taxation upon the industry of a nation.

I trust the tentative suggestion for a naval holiday by the strongest of the powers will be debated and the matter seriously considered by an international conference, looking to reduction of the ambitious and costly plans for navy increase.

I trust that this country will take the initiative and that steps will be taken by a conference of all the powers to discuss reduction of the heavy cost of the army and navy.—Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels.

him. There was some talk of his becoming postmaster to succeed Edward H. Chadbourne, republican, but recent conversations with "Gene" when he was here a few days ago has convinced the politicians that he will not take the postoffice.

Former Congressman Cyrus A. Sulloway, Reed's predecessor, has been thinking some of trying to beat his antagonist again. They have already opposed twice and this fall's fight would be a settlement of a draw. Sulloway having won four years ago and Reed two years ago. But Mr. Sulloway's health is very poor, he has said in the last campaign that it was his last effort and the progressive wing of the republican party would not support him in the primary against a younger man.

Former Speaker Rufus N. Elwell of

Exeter has already formally announced himself for the republican congressional nomination. If Elwell and Sulloway both entered there would be a division in the primary of the state pat vote and some progressive candidate like Sherman E. Burroughs would probably walk away with the party nomination.

In the other district there will probably be a large number of candidates for congress if Stevens runs for senator. Representative Edward H. Watson of Nashua is mentioned on the republican side and no end of hopefuls on the democratic. But this is the time of the year when the political game is to "lay low" like Uncle Remus "Tater Rabbit."

OBITUARY.

Kathryn G. Sullivan

It is seldom that a sad event has cast such a cloud of sorrow in a community as that which occurred in Somersworth, when Miss Kathryn G. Sullivan, daughter of the late Dennis and Annie Sullivan, passed to her eternal rest after a lingering illness surrounded by those near and dear to her. Deceased was thirty-three years of age and one of the best known female residents of her native town. In every relation of life she was faithful, industrious, unselfish, humorous and patient. Her loyalty to her home and church was most marked in her period of life and her passing brings keen sorrow to a wide circle of friends and acquaintances in Somersworth and this city, where she was well known.

Those left to mourn her loss are four brothers, John, Jeremiah and Joseph of Somersworth, Frank, a well known dentist of Laconia; three sisters, Nellie, Annie and Lena Sullivan, all of Somersworth. A touching and impressive demonstration of esteem held for the departed took place on Wednesday when the funeral services were held at the Holy Trinity church in the presence of a large number of sorrowing friends and relatives. A solemn high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Father McDonough of Dover as celebrant, Rev. Father J. E. White of Portsmouth, deacon, Rev. Father W. J. O'Donnogh of Groveton, sub-deacon, Rev. James E. Brennan of Somersworth, master of ceremonies. During the services appropriate solos were rendered by Joseph J. Gorman of Dover and P. E. Kane of Portsmouth. The interment took place in the family lot at Holbrook. The following were the pall bearers, David P. Meskill and John Tighe, of Salmon Falls, James Flannigan of Somersworth, James Brennan of Rochester.

Mrs. Charlotte Young.

Mrs. Charlotte Young, widow of Levi Young, dropped dead on Washington street on Wednesday afternoon of heart trouble. She was the oldest colored woman residing in this city. She is survived by four sons and four daughters and several grandchildren. She made her home with her son, Charles Gardner of Bow street.

With Gen. Villa were Rafael Madero, brother of the late President, and several members of the Terrazas family, who had been in Chihuahua since before its evacuation by Gen. Merced's Federal army. Most of the Terrazas had remained to protect such personal property as had not been confiscated by the Rebels. Luis Terrazas Jr. was still being held in Chihuahua by order of Gen. Villa.

brought into play. The depth at which she lies is of enormous importance for quick salvage, because a large part of the work has to be done by divers who cannot exert themselves at levels below 120 feet or 150 feet, and even at 100 feet labor with extreme difficulty owing to the pressure of water. The usual procedure is to bring a lighter or floating crane or specially equipped vessel for raising submarines to the spot, which can often be located by the bubbles rising from the boat. The British navy has one ship complete, built specially for raising submarines, but she was reported yesterday afternoon near Plymouth, so that she could not reach the place where the A 7 is in time to save life.

Safety Features.

In the case of the German submarine U 3, which sank in Kiel harbor in 1911, the special vessel for lifting submarines attached to the German navy happened not to have steam up, but was towed to the place and employed with such effect that twenty-seven men were rescued alive, only three officers and men perishing. When the lighter, crane, or lifting ship has arrived hawsers have to be placed under the submarine by divers. This is a very difficult and exhausting task, as the hawsers must necessarily be of great strength and corresponding weight. When they have been got under each end of the boat the lifting begins, but the hawsers are always liable to slip. Where a floating crane is available and the sea is not too rough to permit of its use the task of raising the boat is simplified. Otherwise it is a slow and tedious process, agonizing in its anxiety when human lives are in peril.

As for the time during which the crew of a submerged boat can support life, in April, of last year a Russian submarine, the Minoga, was raised with her crew of twenty-five after nine hours' submergence. When the hatch was opened three men were unable to crawl out. Sixteen were removed unconscious, but the coxswain who was in the conning tower and the last to be reached, was found to be in the best condition of all. The unconscious men were speedily revived and recovered completely. They suffered most from the poisonous gas generated by the fumes of water.

AS had as great an escape in 1908, when an escape of petrol gas rendered her crew of eleven insensible. This same boat, A 8, sank in 1910 and refused to rise. She had on board a supply of oxygen sufficient to last seven hours. The pressure of the water upon her started a serious leak, and the first tank of the crew, who remained perfectly cool, was to stop it.

They got the leak under control, pumped out the water in the boat, and cleared the motors, and then at last managed to make her rise, after she had been below for more than ten hours in the words of one of her crew:

"The officer in command soon realized what had happened, and told us we should be all right in a little while he directed the ballast tanks to be blown, but before this could be done the pressure of water opened certain of the rivets where the conning tower joins the hull. This gave us a shock, but nobody showed it. The captain ordered us to fetch up red lead, and while some of us held the plate with numb hands, others pushed lead and oakum into the leak. We suffered nothing from want of air; our one fear was that we might not be able to stop the leak. When the indicator showed that the vessel's nose was up and that she was lifting, we gave a cheer, and well we might, for it was not a pleasant experience."

Yet another submarine of the class, A 9, had a narrow escape in 1908. She was struck by a coasting steamer when just under the surface, and her conning tower was injured. The boat was knocked half over and water rushed in, but the crew displayed splendid coolness, the ballast tanks were instantly blown, and she rose to safety.

One of the most touching documents ever written was penned by the Japanese Lieutenant, Sakuma, commander of the Japanese submarine No. 6, which foundered in 1910, with the loss of all on board. The closing passage was as follows:

"The water began rushing in; the

COMFORTING WORDS

Many a Portsmouth Household Will Find Them So

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed, to be entirely free from annoying dangerous, urinary disorders, is enough to make and kidney sufferer grateful. The following advice of one who has suffered will prove comforting words to hundreds of Portsmouth readers.

Mrs John M. Smart, 122 Gates St., Portsmouth, N. H., says: "Eight or nine years ago I began to suffer from pains in the small of my back which at times changed to a dull grinding ache and if I overexerted my suffering was intensified. I felt tired nearly all the time and had but little energy. Having reason to believe that my kidneys were disordered, I began trying various remedies but without success, until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Philbrick's Pharmacy. The contents of two boxes improved my condition in every way."

MARINE ROBBED LOCKERS OF HIS MATES--HUNTED IN DOVER

Private Albert Truedell, U. S. M. C., who is alleged to have filled the clothing lockers at the marine barracks on Tuesday night, is being sought by the local police, at the request of the naval authorities. Truedell is also under suspicion of breaking and entering the waiting station cafe at Rosemary Junction some time Wednesday morning.

The officers at the barracks notified the local police Wednesday morning that Truedell who was restricted to the yard, for being involved in the robbery of a set of barber tools in this city, had stolen about $100 worth of clothing from the lockers. He had left the yard and was thought to be in Dover.

Deputy Chief Ducker sent officer Shannon to Dover, with a marine from the yard, who knew Truedell and his friends, but they could not find any trace of him in Dover. He was traced as far as Dover and when it was learned that the cafe at Rosemary had been entered last night it was suspected that he may have had a hand in that. He has been continually in trouble since his enlistment and if captured he will get a general court martial.

THE BANGOR NEWS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Bangor, Me., Jan. 28.—The plant of the Bangor Daily News was burned out today. The fire originated in the pressroom and shot up through an elevator shaft to the composing room on the third and fourth floors, destroying everything inside the building.

The cause of the fire has not been determined. The engineer was preparing to leave the building at 7.20 a. m., when he discovered that the pressroom was in flames. The fire had made such headway and the heat was so intense that the engineer could do nothing to subdue the blaze.

All of the editors and reporters except James O. Whittemore, assistant city editor, had left the office. Whittemore had barely time to reach the street.

The building was not of modern construction and the fire quickly worked through ceiling and partitions. All of the contents of the composing room were destroyed, including a battery of typesetting machines. The job printing shop of Ira H. Joy on the second floor, also was burned out.

The fire was a stubborn one to fight and was not extinguished until several hours after it had been discovered.

The News was established in 1889 and 10 years later acquired the Daily Whig and Courier, which was founded in 1831.

The loss is estimated at $35,000.

The News will be published from the plant of the Daily Commercial until a new office is secured and equipped.

switchboard was drowned; all electric lights went out; the electric fuses blew; the boat filled with poisonous gas so that we could only breathe with extreme difficulty. We worked our hardest to empty the main ballast tank with hand pumps, and I believe we succeeded, though being in darkness we could not read the gauges.

"I write this in the dim light from the conning tower, 11.45 a. m. I earnestly beseech his majesty to forgive me and aid the families of my comrades, my men, who must lose their lives with me in this boat now being lost. This is my last wish; 12.30 p. m."

"It is only with extreme difficulty that I can breathe. I cannot continue any more."

PROMOTED ROCKINGHAM PARK

Involuntary Petition in Bankruptcy Filed Against W. A. Gove & Co., Bankers of the Equitable Building.

There was filed in the clerk's office of the United States District Court today an involuntary petition in bankruptcy against Wesley A. Gove and Fred H. Annis, both of Boston, co-partners under the name of W. A. Gove & Co., with offices in the Equitable Building. This concern was the one which exploited Rockingham Park at Salem, N. H., in which a considerable quantity of stock has been sold.

The petition was brought by one creditor, John W. Linnell, who has claim amounting to $17,237.08, a large part of which is for stock. The concern up to a year ago was a member of the Boston Stock Exchange, but sold its seat and went into specially promoting of which Rockingham Park was the principal enterprise.

It is set forth in the petition that property of the alleged bankrupt was removed with intent to hinder, delay and defraud creditors, and that preferences were created by the payment of money.

PRUNELLA

Whitcomb Ames, under whose direction Prunella, will be presented at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, for two weeks, commencing February 2nd, promises a refreshing surprise.

Prunella, is a musical fantasy in three acts by Laurence Housman and Gamville Barker to which Joseph Morrell has added some delightful music. It is free from the "worldly" atmosphere which has enveloped most of our later day successes, having a dainty appeal which should commend it to the public and the seeker after "sweet air" in the theatre. Prunella, deals with the adventures of a little girl who longs for a career in the great world which stretches far away from the narrow limits of her garden. Through the efforts of some traveling drummers headed by Pierrot, she achieves her desire, but a few years later she returns suddenly and sophisticated. She had fled with Pierrot and he tells the story in these words:

"I left her saying nothing. It is so much easier saying nothing when you have nothing to say. But before I went away I had given her a lot of money and a lot of pretty things, dresses, trinkets, bon-bons, everything I could think of to make her happy—except my love. I took that with me. And presently I found I couldn't get rid of it, and it grew heavier and heavier. I couldn't amuse myself, I couldn't dance, laugh or sing. It always came and caught me by the throat and said, or seemed to say, 'You thief! You fool!' I tried to cure but they were no good. And so, at last I came back to see if the cure was there. But Prunella had flown."

TO SAVE THE GAS BILL

Have all cooking ready for the blaze before the burners are lighted. The burners may be extinguished a few minutes before the cooking is finished and still leave enough heat. Never use a large burner when a small one will do.

A strip of asbestos pinned around a burner concentrates the heat on the cooking.

Don't turn the flame so high that the flame spreads on the bottom of the cooking utensil; no extra heat is added, as the gas escapes too rapidly to be ignited.

At night turn off the stop-cock between stove and the main pipe to prevent waste.

LAVENDER AND OLD LACE

If there is a dainty old lady's birthday that you desire to remember in an inexpensive way, you couldn't do better than carry out the lavender and old lace idea. From a piece of lavender silk make a little oblong bag about four inches by two, and fill it with old-fashioned sweet smelling lavender. Then sew the little bag up at the end so that it resembles a small pillow. Now make another little bag to fit snugly over the lavender one. This second bag is to be made of lace—yellow lace, for it is to be old, at least in color. A dipping in weak tea will bring the required creaminess if the lace isn't actually yellowed by age. The end of this lace bag is to be about an inch and a half longer than the lavender pillow, and the edge of it is to be made of the fancy edge of the lace.

After the lavender pillow is put in to the inner bag, the lace is tied together with a lavender ribbon about a half inch wide on which is embroidered in a darker or paler shade of lavender the words "lavender and old lace." These words can be placed on the ribbon ends, not the loops of the bow, two of the words being on one end and two on the other. Whatever you do don't forget the quotation marks. It is just as important that they should be embroidered on the ribbon as the words themselves. As you probably know the title is that of the Myrtle Reed's books. Besides the quotation marks are decorative.

Yes, the little old lady will like that provided she is a dainty old lady.

KEEP YOUR LOVE PRECIOUS

Thing of love as the rarest and most precious commodity in the world, and of careases as the exclusive property of those who love one another.

Determine, then and there that you will do nothing to cheapen life's greatest experience either for yourself or your companion.

If he is the least bit of an idealist, you can explain your principles to him and he will understand. But with a merely thoughtless boy, like the Paul of my story ridicule will work wonders.

FARMERS UNDER INSTRUCTION AT DURHAM

New Hampshire College, Durham, N. H., Jan. 28.—One hundred and seventy-five farmers from Dixville Notch to the Massachusetts line are gathered in Durham today attending the classes of the one-week course in agriculture. These are more here than at this time last year and nearly double this number will arrive before the end of the week.

The students in the one-week course are not boys and girls but men and women, practical farmers and their wives, who come to Durham to learn new methods and have what they are confused about explained. The one-week course is one of the many phases of the elaborate extension work now being done by the college in its efforts to carry the school to the people of the whole state.

President Fairchild welcomed the arrivals Monday evening and classes were held hourly. The agricultural faculty, the experiment station staff and experts from other parts of the country are delivering the lectures and making the demonstrations.

While women are attending the agricultural lectures there is a section especially for them which has its meetings in the room of the home economics department, where Prof. Thompson, assisted by Miss Laura Constock of Massachusetts Agricultural College, and members of the New Hampshire college faculty are giving lectures on matters pertaining to home keeping and making.

ENGLISH MILITANTS STILL ON WARPATH

London, Jan. 28.—Militant suffragettes today made a bold attempt to break into a meeting of the British Cabinet Council, sitting at the official residence of Premier Asquith in Downing street. An automobile belonging to the Women's Social and Political Union, the militant suffragette organization, with a woman driver at the wheel and filled with suffragettes, dashed from Whitehall into Downing street before the line of police could bring it to a halt. When the driver refused to obey the order of the police inspector on duty to retire from the street the entire party of women were placed under arrest and taken across Whitehall, still in their car, to police headquarters at Scotland Yard. The automobile was decorated with placards protesting against the forcible feeding of suffragette prisoners and demanding that the cabinet cease the torture of women in English jails. The unexpected raid caused great excitement and a huge crowd soon gathered about Downing street.

The women were later arraigned at Bow street, where three of them refused to give their names and were entered in the charge book under numbers. The other one, who had acted as a driver, said she was Miss Virtue, and was the private secretary of "General" Mrs. Flora Drummond. Miss Virtue is said to be engaged to marry a Montana rancher as soon as women have secured the vote in Great Britain. Each of the suffragettes made a short speech in court about the ill-treatment of women in jail. All the prisoners were bound never to be of good behavior for six months.

FLAGMAN SENTENCED TO JAIL

Murray of the Bar Harbor Express Gets a Year, but Sentence is Suspended—Negligence Remote.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 28.—Charles H. Murray, flagman of the Bar Harbor express which was wrecked by the White Mountain express on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad at North Haven, on the morning of Sept. 2 inst., and who had pleaded guilty of manslaughter after a coroner's finding of criminal responsibility, was sentenced to one year in the county jail the sentence to be suspended and Murray to be in care of the probation officer, by Judge Shumway of the Superior Court yesterday. In the wreck of the express twenty-one lives were lost. Murray was sent back to flag the White Mountain express. The state's contention was that Murray did not go back far enough. The Court said that Murray's negligence was very remote.

ARE GETTING THE BLACK HAND CROOKS

New York, Jan. 28.—Further revelations concerning tough outrages of the past year and a half that have terrorized hundreds of East Side merchants and property owners are expected to be made today, when the trial of Angelo Sylvester, accused member of a Blackhand organization is resumed.

Through the confessions of Alfred Lehmann and Rocca Pucelli, the police and District Attorney Whitman hoped to stamp out the bomb-throwing gangs of the East Side that have built up a lucrative income under the guise of the Blackhand. Other members of the gang implicated in the confessions are expected to flee the city or make terms with the district attorney.

From the testimony of Lehmann and Pucelli the prosecution laid the basis yesterday for additional disclosures of the band of which the two men confessed to being members. Lehmann told an amazing story of crime from petty thefts in his youth to robbery murder and more recently, to his employment as a bombthrower. He turned state's evidence, he told the court, because members of the gang had refused to employ an attorney for him when he was arrested in Patterson, N. J., for throwing a bomb in a silk mill. Pucelli confirmed everything about the bombthrowers told by Lehmann. Both men declared they had not permitted possibility of personal injury, or even death to stand in the way of their work of planting and setting off explosives.

This morning the fog cleared and the bark set her signal flags, "B B N J," which could not be translated but were supposed to be her name flags. Later she set her flags, which signified by the International code, "Telegraph my owners, Boston, Mass."

The bark had anchored in such close proximity to Bearse's Shoal, on the north side of the channel, that she could not get under way without danger of going ashore, so it is thought the captain may want the owners of the cargo or the underwriters to send a tug out to tow her to Boston.

Recommendation of Navy General Board Made to House Naval Affairs Committee.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Four battleships, instead of the two recommended by Sec. Daniels, were urged upon the House Naval Affairs Committee today by Rear Admiral C. E. Vreeland of the Navy General Board, speaking for Admiral Dewey, who was ill and unable to appear.

The General Board wants four new battleships and 16 destroyers, while Sec. Daniels proposes two battleships, eight destroyers and three submarines.

SURF LEAPS 200 FEET.

Smashes Glass in Lighthouses on Pacific Coast.

San Francisco, Jan. 28.—The highest seas known on the Pacific coast since it was charted and lighted for navigation by the United States Government were recorded during the recent series of gales. The light on Trinidad Head, near Eureka, Cal., was put out last week by surf that smashed in the thick protecting panes of glass surrounding it and disarranged the lens. Trinidad Head rises 380 feet above the sea level. The light is perched on a shelf of rock about half way up and the lens is 200 feet above the margin of the surf. A combing leaped the summit of the light on Tillamook Rock, off the coast of Oregon, and smashed in the glass. The sea on the south coast swept over

THROWN FROM CARRIAGE AND BADLY INJURED

Mrs. F. H. Winn of Newington was thrown from a wagon at the corner of Vaughan and Hanover streets, shortly after eleven o'clock last night and quite badly injured.

Accompanied by her husband and a woman friend, they had been in to the performance at the Portsmouth Theatre and were on the way out home. Mrs. Winn was sitting in a chair to the wagon and her husband was driving and the other woman on with him.

As the horse turned from Hanover into Vaughan street he gave a sudden start and Mrs. Winn was thrown out, striking on her head and right shoulder on the ice. She was taken into a nearby store and Dr. Taylor called. There were no bones broken but she was badly bruised and shaken up. She was later removed to her home in Newington in an automobile.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush the Kidneys at Once When Backache or Bladder Bothers—Meat Forms Uric Acid

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or drain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, and bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your bladder hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of stinging, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should eat now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

HOMESICK

Oh, my garden lying white in the moonlight and the dew,
Far across the leagues of distance
Flies my heart tonight to you,
And I see your stately lilies in the tender radiance gleam
With a slim, mysterious splendor like the angels of a dream.

I can see the stealthy shadows creep along the ivied walls,
And the dusky depths of verdure where the drooping vine leaves fall,
And the tall trees standing darkly with their crowns against the sky
While overhead the harvest moon goes slowly by.

I can see the pretilled minor and the roses' crimson glow,
And the lances of the larkspur all glittering row on row
And the wilderness of hollyhocks where brown bees seek their spoil,
And the butterflies dance all day long, in glad and gay turmoil.

Oh, the broad paths running straight, to north and south and east and west,
Oh, the wild grape climbing steadily to reach the arble's nest!
Oh, the bank where wild flowers blossom, ferns and mosses creep in a tangled maze of beauty over all the wooded steep!

Just beyond the moonlit garden I can see the orchard trees,
With their dark boughs overlaid, stirring softly in the breeze,
And the shadows on the greenward, and within the pasture bars
The white sheep huddling quietly beneath the pallid stars.

Oh, my garden lying white in the moonlight and the dew,
Far across the yearning ocean flies my yearning heart to you,
And I turn from stately castle, hoary fane and ruined shrine,
To the dear familiar pleasureance where my own white lilies shine—

With a vague, half-startled wonder if some night in paradise,
From the battlements of heaven I shall turn my longing eyes
All the dim, resplendent spaces and the many star-diffused through,
To my garden lying white in the moonlight and the dew.
